AMRUTHAVANI

Beloved children,

. By being world-faced and by ruminating on the sense pleasure, one gets immersed in samsara. By reversing this thought -current, by fixing one's devotion on God and by practicing anushtana, one gains the wealth of tapas. The fire of tapas should burn within. As in the wake of the sun ice melts away, so too vasanas should melt away in the fire kindled by tapas. As a salt doll which plunges into the sea in order to measure its depth at once dissolves in the ocean, so too, by meditating on Brahman and touching the ocean of Brahman, the personal self vanishes and loses itself in Brahman. This is the fulfillment.

*Love and blessings
Rama Devi*

PEACE OF MIND

What one requires is not riches or fame or position in society. What is more important is the peace of mind and faith in God. Most spiritual persons are simple. They help to solve your problems. A spiritually evolved person knows that he is in you and you are in him. That is why he pleases all and takes them to peak of spirituality.(Tarama Times.2006 Oct)

IN THE DIVINE PRESENCE

-Sanker

By the blessings of a few saints, I at last came to the feet of Sadguru Sri Rama Devi and on the seventeenth December 1950, my wife and I had the fortune of sitting before her for about two hours. For the first time, we felt the soul-elevating purity of divine love. She imparted to us the sacred Rama-mantra which was followed by an illuminating discourse, in language that can be understood by anyone. In a short while, the whole realm of spirituality was covered. Step by step, she described to us the nature of the ever-changing world around us, the mind and its mysteries, the struggle between good and evil, the pain and sorrow born of attachment and aversion, how the intellect gets clouded and the persistence of the ego, characterized by desire. Transcending all these, there is that which is ever present, which is referred to as truth, God, peace, silence, love. When the discourse was over, we found ourselves elevated.

The third of February 1951 was indeed momentous to my wife and me. Mother, kind and compassionate, took pity on us and gave us initiation. In deep silence, we heard the sacred mantra breathed into the ears by her. The experience I then had was greatest in my life. I later learnt that this was the experience of all her disciples during the initiation ceremony.

WORDS OF WISDOM

1.No one can read the Gospels without feeling the actual presence of Jesus. His personality pulsates in every word. No myth is filled with such life." -----Albert Einstien

2. Humble yourselves. Do not think highly and you will attain high things. The more gold is tested in the fire, the purer it become. And the Christian, the more he is tried by temptations, the more his soul is purified. The more deeply the plow tills the earth, the more often we prune and carefully tend the vines, the more and the sweetest fruit we will receive.

---Saint Elder Ephraim

3. Bear sorrows for the sake of the Heavenly Kingdom. Without sorrows there is no salvation. On the other hand, the Kingdom of God awaits those who have patiently endured. And all the glory of the world is nothing in comparison. My joy! I implore you to acquire a peaceful spirit.

----Saint Seraphim of Sarov

MOTHER'S PRESENCE

Mother's presence on earth is the greatest boon to mankind. To deny Mother's all-pervasive divinity is indeed a sin. We need not sacrifice anything to see Mother. No one who has seen Mother once, ever returned disheartened. Having seen Her and having glimpsed Her divine nature, Her devotees do not have any further urge for wanderings here and there in search of God and peace. Having listened to Her discourses and personal instructions in sadhana, they do not stand in need of any holy book for guidance. Every word of Mother is a gem of wisdom. Her teaching contains the essence of Vedas and Upanishads.—T.N.Gopinathan Nair

PEARLS FROM MOTHER'S LIPS

(Saktinagar Bulletin 08-11.1974)

1. Aspire to become an ideal child of the Guru, 'Guruputra'. Parents leave their legacy of wealth to their children. What the Divine Parent, the Sadguru, leaves for the ideal disciple, is the imperishable wealth of wisdom, but the disciple should be worthy of grace.

2. The disciple should be worthy of grace. He should be a person of humility, simplicity and faith. Jealousy, discontent, doubt and egoism should not be allowed even to approach him. He should not exult in happiness, success and accomplishment, but should regard all achievements as a reward of Grace.

MAHASAMADHI OF MY GURU SRI YUKTESWAR

I entered the ashram room where Master's body, unimaginably lifelike, was sitting in the lotus posture—a picture of health and loveliness. A short time before his passing, my guru had been slightly ill with fever, but before the day of his ascension into the Infinite, his body had become completely well. No matter how often I looked at his dear form I could not realize that its life had departed. His skin was smooth and soft; in his face was a beatific expression of tranquillity. He had consciously relinquished his body at the hour of mystic summoning. "The Lion of Bengal is gone!" I cried in a daze. I conducted the solemn rites on March 10th. Sri Yukteswar was buried with the ancient rituals of the swamis in the garden of his Puri ashram. His disciples later arrived from far and near to honor their guru at a vernal equinox memorial service. -----
